

Mr. Bernhard Otupal works as Assistant Director of the Financial and High Tech Crime Sub-Directorate at the General Secretariat of Interpol in Lyon/France where he is in charge of the Interpol's activities in the fields of financial crime, high tech crime, counterfeited currency and credit cards and intellectual property right violations. He holds a Master of Science degree in Forensic Computing and Cyber Crime Investigations of the University College Dublin and is since January 2009 adjunct Senior Lecturer at this university.

Mr. Otupal began his career as a police officer in 1984 with the Gendarmerie in Upper Austria. In 1987, he became a detective for scene of crime investigations and in 1990 switched over later to a local unit dealing with car theft investigations.

In 1993, Mr. Otupal moved to Vienna to work in the Federal Ministry of Interior in the National Organized Crime Unit and subsequently in the same year to the National Counter Terrorism Unit. In 1998, he created a Central National Computer and Network Crime Investigation Unit and since August 1999 worked there as the Head of Section responsible for national and international cooperation and coordination of IT related investigations. Since then, Mr. Otupal represented Austria before the UN, COE, Europol, the OSCE and several other international organizations.

Mr. Otupal has also been responsible for setting up national training programs and in 1999 he became the permanent Austrian representative to the European Working Party on IT-Crime and in this capacity a member of the Interpol Training Group.

Mr. Otupal is a frequent consultant and trainer around the globe on topics related to high technology crime, psychological aspects related to the internet and international aspects of law enforcement.

Mr. Otupal was also a Lecturer at the University College of Hagenberg/Upper Austria of Computer and Media Security.

Mr. Bernhard Otupal has several publications on IT Crime and Suicidal activities in connection with the Internet to his credit.